FOREWORD

A strong foundation is needed in these trying times for our life ahead. We realize how important a part the public plays in building that foundation. Carefully laying brick upon brick, the school molds the framework for our future years just as laborers, in constructing a new building, lay a firm base to support their finished product. We, in laying our blueprints for the 1952 Re-Echo, have selected the theme, "Construction", to try to show how a strong base is laid for us in the lower grades, and as we progress we add to this foundation until we arrive at the top as Seniors — the finished product.

MRS. PORTER, MR. PHILLIPS

DEDICATION

To Mr. H. Raymond Phillips, who by his untiring efforts and unselfish gift of time and guidance has not only been a very capable advisor to us during our Junior and Senior years of high school, but has also become a personal friend to each member of the class of 1952, and to Mrs. Jean H. Porter, without whose unceasing help and encouraging ideas and services as our yearbook advisor we would never have been able to edit the 1952 yearbook, we, with gratitude and appreciation, sincerely dedicate the 1952 Re-Echo.

The architects and engineers of a building know how great a load every piece of steel will carry. The administration of a school fully realizes its responsibilities as it sees to it that every student bears a fair load. The teachers, the principals, the Board of Education, and the Superintendent combine their efforts to secure for the students the best groundwork for their life ahead.

Before the bricklayers can even begin their work, it is necessary to have a foundation; the all-important teachers form this necessary foundation. Through the 1951-52 season, the teachers helped and guided us through the intricacies of learning, molding and shaping our characters with the best tools of a competent and progressive school system.

Next in line are the principals who lay each individual brick into place and govern our activities through our school years. (Orders from the "head office" are always strictly followed!) Even small problems are important to them, and they help us draw up the blueprints for our future life ahead.

The principle function of the Board of Education is to provide experienced managemanship for coordinating the various trades. Having worked diligently for the past few years on plans for the building of a new elementary school, the Board breathed a sigh of relief as the construction on the new school drew to a close; their goal for adequate room for the students has been realized at last.

The construction of a building would be confused without a chief engineer. Miss Luella P. Hoyer is the power behind the guiding forces of our school system and does a wonderfully capable job of tying together all parts into an efficiently functioning system.

GRADES K TO 6

UNSKILLED LABORERS

IN MEMORIAM

To his little friends, David Fitchlee will always be remembered. David showed a great interest in his classmates, and an even greater interest in his school work. David was an active youngster, always thinking of his classmates first, and then of himself. It seems impossible that someone so energetic and young should be taken from his parents and little friends so suddenly and so tragically. "He will always be alive in the hearts of everyone", and his smiling face and kindly spirit will linger.

GRADES K - 6

"Growing as fast as Jack's magical beanstalk", the kindergarten through sixth grades progressed rapidly in size and shape. Here was formed the foundation for a better education to come.

The masons, (better known as teachers), set up a concrete foundation early in the year. The children soon learned to use steel bones and ribs (slate and chalk) very efficiently in their every day work. To further aid their knowledge the grades took trips to the museum and zoo, and inspected the local water works and canning factory.

Each grade supported its own framework. To prove this the second grade, under the competent eye of Mrs. Wohltjen, constructed a model grocery store. It was after this project was completed that the people began to realize that the grades also had "hidden nerves and arteries". A further survey revealed that the other classes had not been idle. Mr. Warner's 6th grade showed an overwhelming interest in leather-craft, and Miss Dunham's grade made puppets with which they put on a performance for the grades. Mrs. Cooper's class, to illustrate their work, set up a Washington village and achieved a more vivid picture of what they were studying. These activities were but a few of the undertakings of the grades. To add a finishing touch, the grades held picnics at the end of the school year.

So we see that the grades have progressed brick by brick and girder by girder, and someday they too will have completed their educational building.

CLASSROOM THOUGHTS

*Pupils arrive with the month of September,
And soon discover how much they remember
Of English, mathematics and science too,
And the history that interests all but a few!
The weeks fly by, and the students scurry
To be ready for mid-terms, that come in a hurry.
But they are over, in no time at all,
And the "fever of Spring" fills every hall.
Spring brings with it those outdoor sports
On the baseball diamonds and the tennis courts.
For each home team comes a mighty cheer —
But studies aren't forgotten, never fear!
For as June wafts in, on wings of song,
The students must study — for ever so long —
Till exams are over, and then, at last,
They say goodbye, and leave — but fast!
To enjoy the summer, so short and flitting,
Midst felicity and friendship and accomplishments fitting,
Till September, then, are the days bright and merry —
And when students return, they're as brown as a berry.*

As the frame climbed higher, the seventh and eighth grades found themselves entering the various activities of the school and moving one step nearer to their goal.

The beginning of the year saw the seventh grade getting under way with Mr. Phillips and Mr. Warner as Chief Architects. They tried to "mold" the characters of the seventh graders to prepare them to step into high school.

The seventh graders settled down quickly and made wise use of materials on hand when Eleanor Larson walked off with top honors in the annual school spelling bee, and her sister Marcia took second place. Not to be outdone by their feminine classmates, the boys' intramural basketball team emerged in first place in their league.

Meanwhile the eighth grade, with Mr. Herry as their harassed advisor, chose such willing workers as David Childs and Gordon Woods as Student Council representatives. The various activities of the grade were advertised by Joyce Rowley and Pete Smith on the newspaper staff, and athletically the class found its niche with Ronnie Mapes being the star center on the J. V. squad.

To offset any possible monotony in the construction job, time out was taken by both grades for parties, with the Christmas party and June picnic topping the list of good times.

As the school term drew to a close, the seventh and eighth grades found themselves one door closer to the completion of their school career. The blueprints were at last beginning to take shape!

The Freshman Class, the newest addition to the high school building, arrived amid a din of confusion. The first glimpse of the green Freshmen assured us that they were ready to take their place in the net work of high school affairs. Swaying precariously high above the ground, the Freshmen came down to earth with a thud as the year proceeded.

After landing safely, the Freshman Class started with a bang as they elected Brenda Brown and Joyce Riemer to the Student Council. They were well represented in such various activities as Wrestling, Junior Varsity Basketball, Intramurals, Mixed Chorus and Mixed Choir. A group of Freshman boys interested in singing, started the Freshman Boys' Ensemble, and two of the girls were Junior Varsity cheerleaders.

As we can well imagine, the class was not entirely overrun with work all the time. There was plenty of fun when the class gave parties at Hallowe'en and Valentine's Day. It was at the Hallowe'en party that the Freshmen began to show they really had minds of their own. (Those scavenger hunts were really something!) The Valentine's Day party however, proved to be little too much for certain classmembers. The highlight of the evening came when Mr. Fish and Mr. Kelley displayed their dancing ability. They were affectionately tagged "The Fred Astaires of 1952".

There must be a happy ending to every good story, and as the Freshmen brought a very prosperous year to a close with a picnic, they realized that they were one tier closer to the completion of a good education. —D. Kenward

SOPHOMORE CLASS

President	-	-	-	-	JAMES ENDERBY
Vice-President	-	-	-	-	KENNETH VARLEY
Secretary-Treasurer	-	-	-	-	AMY EVERTS
Advisor	-	-	-	-	MISS MOLYNEUX

As the hammer was pounded on the desk by the new president, Jim Enderby, the Sophomore Class knew it was nailed down for the duration of the year. The door then opened and revealed the great responsibilities which were ahead. Miss Molyneux, as chief engineer, and Doris Reimer and Stanley Church, as Student Council representatives, held the key to the toolbox.

The derrick really went to work when many of the Sophomore boys and girls joined in the various activities of the school. Their voices added (we hope!) to the Girls' Ensemble, Mixed Chorus, and Choir. The boys gave a good account of themselves in sports; especially in basketball with the eminent president of the Sophomores on Varsity, and five other members on J. V. A number of the members were willing craftsmen in the Library Club, F. F. A., F. H. A. and Camera Club. Another happy gang of four girls from the Sophomore Class were chosen as Junior Varsity Cheerleaders. How they worked on that "Go Lyndonville Go!"

The harrowing Hallowe'en party was held October 29 in the school cafeteria. The building couldn't contain the spirited Sophs, and the party somehow ended up in a game of "hide-and-go-seek". Everyone emerged alive, we think! A Freshman and Sophomore picnic at Shadigee ended this commemorative year. What fun the Sophs had throwing grass, right Miss Molyneux?

As the frame climbs higher towards completion, and the Sophomore Class of 1952 becomes the Junior Class of 1953, the responsibilities and tasks that await the members are eagerly anticipated.

JUNIOR CLASS

President	JUDITH OAKES
Vice-President	RICHARD KENYON
Secretary	JUDITH MELAND
Treasurer	HOWARD ROGERS
Advisor	MR. KELLER

The members of the Junior Class set up their transit early in the semester. Always trying to be hard-working masons, the Juniors laid a good foundation for their class activities by industrious, remunerative effort.

The year was begun with an election of officers after which plans for various activities were drawn up. Among the first occupational hazards was the selling of candy and hot dogs at the Lyndonville Canning Company. After this financially successful job was completed the Juniors started the sale of candy, pop, and ice cream at basketball games. They were quite successful in this, their motto being, "Work hard and long; you will be rewarded." Finally the time the Juniors had been waiting for arrived — the first week in December! What happened? Why of course — they received their class rings — an occasion to be remembered by all. During the month of January the "masons" were "busy as bees" planning the Junior Supper which took place February 7.

Last but not least was the Junior Prom — the biggest event of the year! The theme, which was "Snow White", was carried out in the decorations. Naturally it was a surprise as to whom the prince and princesses were. And oh my! What smooth dancers those Juniors proved themselves to be!

Now that the third tier in their high school education has been completed, and now that they have participated in many extra-curricular activities, the Juniors are looking forward to becoming the Seniors of '53 as they realize they are "almost to the top".

This year we put the finishing touches on our high school education. Starting off in 1940 as the first grade, we have rapidly progressed through twelve stages to become the Senior Class of 1952.

In our Senior year we built up our class funds for our Senior trip by sponsoring that never-to-be-forgotten Senior Play, a supper, and an amateur show. Besides these we had our class dues and of course, our yearbook on which we feverishly worked all year, and for which work we were rewarded with a large profit. Combining the proceeds from these different projects, we found we had enough for our long-awaited Senior Trip.

We were entirely finished and opened to the public for inspection in June of 1952. It is now up to us to complete the job of our successful future life, and we will always appreciate having such a firm beginning at L. C. S.

FOOTBALL

Co-Captains - RICHARD PETERS, PAUL GOETZE
 Coach - MR. HARTSEN

With vigorous energy Coach Arnold Hartsen set about molding a new football team. The boys cast their bids early for a successful season and were rewarded with an enviable won five and lost two record.

The competent engineering of captains Dick Peters and "Gopie" Goetze, the kicking of Bob Blanchard, and the capable blocking of Jim Cook and Dean West were a few of the reasons for such a record. Hard-hitting Paul Goetze, bulling his way through, amassed 52 points, and climax-running Carl Woods, of the swivel hips, racked up 105 points to lead the team in scoring.

Perhaps the most memorable highlight of the season was a blood-and-thunder thriller fought under the arcs at Medina. In this tilt the unpredictable elements were a "thorn in the side" of both teams, but Lyndonville finally emerged on top.

Having won the championship of the "C" league of Niagara-Orleans football league, Coach Hartsen looks forward to another successful playing record in the 1952 "football parade".

DICK PETERS
MR. HARTSEN

Coach Hartsen had little trouble forming the nucleus of his Varsity team as five lettermen from last year's squad were still available.

With Bob Church at center, "Do or Die" West and Dick Peters holding down the guard positions, and Clare Woodworth and Jim Enderby setting up the plays as forwards, the season started off with a swish.

Although the season was a disappointing one in regard to wins and losses, there were many close hard-fought games that could have gone either way. In one of the season's best games, at Pavilion, the excitement was at a key pitch as first the L. C. S. cagers were leading — then Pavilion — and time was running out. In the last few minutes of play, the speedy handling of the ball by both teams made it anyone's game. But as the final whistle blew, we were trailing by one heart-breaking point.

Next year only three experienced players will be left on the Varsity, but there is plenty of good material coming up from the Junior Varsity and we wish Coach Hartsen all the luck in the world in next season's hoop season.

MR. HARTSEN, MR. GRANT, MR. KELLEY

The snow was melting, and the sun was beginning to shine warmly when the thoughts of construction manager Hartsen and his crewmen turned to the well-loved sport — baseball.

The veteran craftsmen still working diligently under Manager Hartsen were: Dean West, whose pitching prowess was well remembered from last year; Jim Cook, holding down the position behind the plate; Bob Church at the initial sack (first base); Bob Blanchard at third base; and Dick Peters, Carl Woods and Paul Goetze capably working in the outfield. The apprentices that advanced were Ronnie Mapes, Gilbert Cain, Dick Kenyon in the outfield, and Jack Riordan and "Bo Bo" Skinner in the infield.

The crew started out full of vim and vigor, and of course were spurred on to victory by last year's battling boys who fought their way upward to become the Co-Champions of the 5th division of Western New York, which was no small honor.

BOYS' INTRAMURALS

Advisor

"Get that ball", was the cry heard most often during the 1951-52 intramural season as various sizes and shapes of boys strove to do their best. This year Boys' Intramurals started out with a crash as the football season opened. Then the boys turned to the most keenly competitive intramural sport, basketball.

The teams were divided up by the chief body builder, Mr. Hartsen, with each team taking the name of a leading college. The Varsity men were the coaches and as each team was evenly divided, the basketball season proved to be a close one. Disregarding their structure, the boys on each team were found to be battling furiously for a win. But Notre Dame, captained by Bob Blanchard and paced by hard-hitting Jack Riordan, emerged victorious as the exciting intramural basketball season drew to a close.

Next, thoughts were turned to ping-pong, badminton, shuffle board, and wrestling. The students watched some of the more thrilling ping-pong games which took place. As usual Vernon Krisher came forward to place first in his favorite game, and Bob Church defeated Gordon Joy to take the badminton tournament.

In spring a young man's fancy turns to — you guessed it, baseball! With baseballs furiously flying and bats swinging, the boys gladly took to the outdoors and the well known sport of baseball to round out the year.

As the process of hardening the foundation continues next year, and until the green freshmen, containing potential strength, arrive, another successful year of intramurals will be awaited.

GIRLS' INTRAMURALS

Advisor

MISS GRAY

A double dribble was the start of the Girls' Intramurals for the 1951-52 season. With steamshovels and hoists (in common language basketballs and sneakers), it was proved that girls could build up a framework of "riveted steel". The Seniors, as usual, were battling for first place, with the Juniors a close second. Miss Gray wondered if she could ever teach some of the girls the rules of basketball!

Next the less strenuous sport of volleyball was started. Oops! Did I say less strenuous? Suzanne Krisher with her walloping fist and Mary Helsdon with her outstanding speed certainly kept everyone on her toes. With the help of these two the Sophomores and Juniors ended in a close finish.

Now the structure had definitely begun to take shape and the girls turned for a change to badminton and ping-pong. Birds (not the live type) began flying, and paddling it out over the ping-pong tables. Each girl had her turn at these sports, and some hard fought games took place.

In the spring bats were flung over shoulders and the girls ventured outside on the still-muddy field to start baseball. What happened when certain students slipped? The Juniors once again showed the greatest efforts for victory.

The season was closed with the realization that "the framework carries the load" and eager anticipation for the next year's sport calendar.

Mr. WOHLTJEN

Crash! Bang! Boom! That's how the band started off this year with the new leader, Mr. Wohltjen, as chief of operations. Although the builders tools were in a desperate state because of the loss of so many experienced band members, the band was greatly improved by plenty of hard work. With the laboring of many inexperienced members and with the capable planning of Mr. Wohltjen, the band ended up with a large well-balanced unit which made fast progress.

This year a new system was inaugurated by which students received points for attendance, solos, offices, and extra practices. This system gave the members incentive to do their best.

The first performance this year was at a football game, at which onlookers, during the intermission, enjoyed snappy marches with a routine done by the twirlers. Brrr! Remember how cold Audrey looked? Later the band played at basketball games. The band's first assembly appearance was November 15 during American Education Week. At the Christmas Operetta numbers were played in which all members were equally represented. This season the band worked especially hard, not with hammers and saws, but with their beloved and somewhat battered instruments.

Four members of the band were chosen for the sectional held at Holley. These were Carol Riordan, Noralu Woodworth, Susan Barry and Teddy Teffner. Teddy also was the representative at All-State held at Rochester. The band made rapid progress in 1952 and next year it is hoped there will be an even bigger improvement.

VOCAL MUSIC

Accompanist -
Director -

JUDITH MELAND
MRS. WOLFE

The voices of tomorrow are being developed today in the various vocal groups at L. C. S., under the able management of Mrs. Eleanor Wolfe. In the 1952 season, the basis for better vocal consistency was "hoisted" to its very peak.

The mixed Chorus consisted of boys and girls from each high school class, and was more or less a foundation for the development of the other vocal groups.

The Girls' Ensemble, which consisted of twelve girls, blended their voices together to produce many majestic tones. The Ensemble appeared at various school functions, and according to established tradition, at the churches of the community.

The Mixed Choir, a new organization, was composed of some of the better voices in high school. They too appeared at school assemblies and other functions of the school.

That the boys of high school were also interested in music was proved by the Boys' Octet and the Freshman Boys' Ensemble. Both groups added the finishing touches to the vocal structure by singing at different school functions. The accent of the Boys' Octet at the Senior Play certainly proved there is a new way to speak German!

Our school was well represented at the All-State Music Festival held at Holley this past year. It proved to be very exciting, didn't it, girls?

Lastly, to see that all efforts had not been wasted, the different groups ventured to Amherst where they competed with various other vocal groups. As a reward for their hard work, the groups found they had reached the top of the structure without too much difficulty.

STUDENT COUNCIL

President	-	-	-	-	-	ALBERT AMES

Secretary	-	-	-	-	-	LORRAINE NOWAK
Calendar Man	-	-	-	-	-	JAMES COOK
Advisor	-	-	-	-	-	MR. HERRY

As the governing body of our school, the Student Council was very busy deciding on a multitude of questions which occur throughout the school year. At times the members harassed Mr. Herry, and at other times won the point by persuasion. It should be admitted there were times also when Mr. Herry was adamant.

The school calendar was, as usual, filled with events scheduled by the Council. The activities ranged from Hallowe'en parties to dates for the assembly programs. Two scheduled assembly programs were unavoidably cancelled, much to the disappointment of the student body.

The Student Council is very proud of its hard work in the sponsorship of the CARE package drive. By dint of hard work on the part of all members, the Council was able to collect over seventy dollars which enabled the school to send packages to Turkey, Germany, Korea, and France.

The Council also took a trip to the annual Student Council meeting at Nunda. There the representatives learned how other schools ran their councils and how they functioned. There was dancing, movies, and other kinds of recreation to occupy spare moments. This trip afforded the members an excellent opportunity to meet with, and discuss the common problems of high school with other students from all over the state. It promoted a fine spirit of mutual cooperation and understanding.

This year's president, Albert Ames, will hand over the gavel to Jack Riordan in June. The Seniors' work in this school structure may be finished, but to those coming on, the task has only begun.

HONOR SOCIETY

President	- - - - -	JOYCE SKINNER

Secretary-Treasurer	- - - - -	MARY HILL
Advisors	-	MISS MOLYNEUX, MRS. BYERLY, MR. FISH, MR. GRANT

In 1952 an important step forward was taken in Lyndonville Central. The first Honor Society was formed. The faculty, after much research and investigation of other societies, decided to sponsor a honor society at Lyndonville. By selecting the first twelve members on scholarship alone, it was hoped that a good, strong basis for the raising of a sturdy structure would be laid.

On February 11, the first unofficial meeting was held, in which the faculty welcomed the new members at a hanquet at the Apple Grove. Here everyone had their fill of good food (mmmm—turkey!) and two representatives each from Medina's and Barker's Honor Societies were present to inform the new society on how their societies were run and what they did for their schools. After listening carefully, each new member went home full of turkey and ideas for the new society.

At the first formal meeting held, it was pointed out that the society was established mainly to give credit to the honor students. A tentative groundwork was laid for the construction, and it was decided that the Senior with the highest average would be President, the Junior with the highest average Vice-President, and the highest ranking Sophomore Secretary-Treasurer.

In the future, the Honor Society hopes to grow and grow until it reaches the heights of a strong and upright building which will be looked up to and respected by the school and community. This group of twelve, who constitute the foundation of the society, will always follow its progress hoping for improvement and speed in its future construction.

ART CLUB

President	- - - - -	BETTY DIX
Vice-President	- - - - -	FRANCIS WOODARD
Secretary-Treasurer	- - - - -	DELORES AARON
Advisor	- - - - -	MR. BLUHM

People passing by the school around Christmas craned their necks to look at the Art Club's effort — the spectacular painting on the library windows, especially the lovely picture of the "Madonna". This was one of the many things done by the Art Club to beautify our edifice this year.

Early in the fall of '51 a group of high school students convened to organize this year's Art Club. It was decided that although decorative effects do not hold the building up, they do much to beautify it. Elaborate plans and close supervision by the overseer, Mr. Bluhm, kept materials moving and the Art Club active. Remember when Randy's watch stopped while the group was sketching pictures of the new school building? Mr. Bluhm then decided that the members had no sense of time! The Art Club's trip to the Art Gallery in Buffalo proved very inspirational and educational. Here the members saw interesting sculptors and well-known original paintings by famous artists. They were entertained by the guide, who told the story behind each of these famous paintings. Working on the Safety First slogan posters, leather-craft, plaster of paris, and decorating the bulletin boards, was enjoyed by all. Everyone seemed to have his share of fun repairing and repainting old toys for the children's home for Christmas gifts. Another colorful and helpful job was the painting of the scenery for the Senior Play.

On December 13, a party was held, which was a gay, colorful and blushing festival (especially under the mistletoe); ask Mr. Grant and Mr. Bluhm.

CAMERA CLUB

Co-Presidents	JOHN MEYER, GENE ROOK
Secretary-Treasurer	JOAN WOODROE
Advisor	MR. FISH

Lights! Camera! Action! Everyone watched his pose as the Camera Club came around snapping pictures. Getting off to a flying start with some skilled workers from last year's club, and some new camera enthusiasts eager to learn the art of photography, the Camera Club did a good job of recording the activities of the school in photographs.

In order to achieve a more vivid picture of their project, the cameramen went forth on a trip to Eastman Kodak where they learned better developing methods and how to take better pictures.

This year they took over the project of trying to supply the yearbook with some good candid shots. What happened when you tried to develop those 24 pictures of of Senior Play, Gene? Was Joan somewhere around?"

Things really began to roll when the Camera Club sponsored a snapshot contest. Some especially good shots were turned in. Gene Rook won the contest with an outstanding picture of Paul Goetze playing the piano.

This year with the new photography equipment, a professional job of printing and developing was done. Some very good pictures were made of the new school.

It is hoped with the addition of new and even better materials next year and the possibility of a school camera, that the Camera Club can do a more superior job of recording school activities, and in the not too distant future perhaps take over the job of shooting all the photography for the yearbook.

PRESS CLUB

Advisors

MRS. PORTER, MR. GRANT, MR. PHILLIPS

This year the school bustled with the activity of the newly formed Press Club, and the voices of its enthusiastic news-hunters at work. They scouted around for weekly news on current events and new material for their regular features which were all printed regularly in the village paper, the "Lyndonville Enterprise".

A constant attempt was made by the "news-hounds" to add variety to such regular features as "Teachers in the News" which were brief biographies of faculty members, and "The Roving Reporter" which was a poll taken weekly among the high school students on questions of current interest. (Some of the opinions were pretty dizzy too!). Another regular entry was "The Thumbprint", a brief sketch of a student whose identity was not revealed until the following week. These sketches really had students guessing! Later in the year when the ideas and columns grew, more features were added among which were: "Manners for Moderns", which we hope some of the more effervescent (?) students studied, and "Menus of the Week", which kept everyone drooling, and also a regular article on sports.

Three faculty members, Mrs. Porter, Mr. Grant, and Mr. Phillips, supervised the writing and presentation of the news. Gradually the quality and quantity of the material was built up until it recorded all the events of importance and interest that went on in the school.

Much enthusiasm on the part of the reading public and students was aroused by the appearance of these columns. Next year should produce an even better and greater news column, and even more students with a "nose for news" will be striving towards that goal.

F. F. A.

President	DONALD DIX
Vice-President	GILBERT CAIN
Secretary-Treasurer	ELTON BENTLEY
Advisor	MR. SPARBER

During 1952 the local Chapter of the Future Farmers of America was under the guidance of Mr. Sparber, L. C. S.'s Vocational Agriculture instructor. The organization attempted to build a stronger interest in farming by participating in different agricultural events.

After the officers were elected, it was decided to hold an initiation in which the "Greenhands" would receive their first degree. Some boys from the Medina Chapter were invited to help on this important occasion. Some very weird things happened during this initiation, but all survived surprisingly well!

During the winter months the members were busy participating in a Round-Robin basketball contest with other F. F. A. chapters from the Niagara-Orleans area. They did quite well considering everything, and everyone thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

On March 11, in a two county event, the F. F. A. and the United States Dairymen's Association cooperated in studying the local farm enterprises. A square dance was held in April, and everyone can still remember the call of "Swing Your Partners". By participating in the National Judging contest, more about the basis upon which the dairymen receive their awards was learned. In March a field trip was taken by the advanced students; these boys will go into farming and make it their career.

The year was closed when former members from the Sophomore, Junior and Senior years were given awards.

The F. F. A. was a very active one and next year it is hoped that even more will be done to help the boys in their future career of farming.

Instead of getting out the hammer and saw, the Future Homemakers of America, because it is a girls' organization, took up the thread and needle, and began to sew on a garment of wearing apparel.

The goal of the F. H. A. is to live better today, in order that the girls' lives and those of their families may be better tomorrow.

With Miss Whitney as chief executive, drawing the blueprints (commonly known as patterns) it was proved that housekeeping is an integral part of every day living. It was soon learned that, just as a bricklayer must have bricks to do his job, the F. H. A. members also needed an abundant supply of good materials to do theirs.

The greatest concern of the builder is a strong foundation for his building. The F. H. A.'s greatest concern was a strong foundation for their future jobs as homemakers. Working together on projects dealing with home improvement, safety, care of children, and recreation, the F. H. A. had a big job to do. The aim of the F. H. A. was to raise funds to help with such welfare projects as supplying food and clothing for needy children and families. To prove its aim, the F. H. A. sent a box to a needy family.

In December a Christmas Party was held. After the fun, refreshments were served. The F. H. A. has tried hard to build up a more active interest in home-making, and every member has thoroughly enjoyed its activities.

LIBRARY STAFF

Chief of Staff

SHIRLEY WATERS

MRS. PORTER

The Library Staff's motto is "Service with a Smile", and its members tried to live up to this under the capable guidance of Mrs. Porter. Busy as beavers, all members of this group tried constantly to stop any or all leaks in the maintenance of the library service. The staff met every other Monday, to "hammer away" at learning new library techniques, and at investigating other matters.

When the skeleton has been enclosed by four walls, a building may seem to be completed, but there are many furnishings that are needed to fully complete the job. The books of the library provided one of the finishing touches for the building of the mind, and it is the job of the Library Staff to make ready the books for the students.

Next fall when the new grade library is completed, the staff plans to move the grade books and files to the new structure. One of the aims of the staff is to work out a schedule so that some of the staff can help to keep the grade library open at all times. The Library Staff hopes to build up book interest in the little tots by participating in regular story hours for them. Other plans include the training of sixth grade volunteers so that they may help in years to come.

It is felt that the Library Staff did much to improve the efficiency of the library this year, and next year it is expected that they will help out even more in making the library truly "a wonderland of dreams".

Amid a pile of dummy sheets, harrassed student writers, and reams of copy, the staff started to erect the issue of the "Re-Echo" you are now reading. Joyce Skinner, the efficient editor, received her initiation early, while her able assistants, Nancy Belson and "Mike" Nowak were likewise immersed in truck loads of work. "Mrs. Porter-r-r! Where'd you put that snapshot?" was a typical remark that rang out over the press room.

The first task considered was the choosing of a theme, and we finally resolved all arguments when we agreed on "Construction". This was most appropriate since our new grammar school had already begun to poke its structural steel head above the houses lining Main Street.

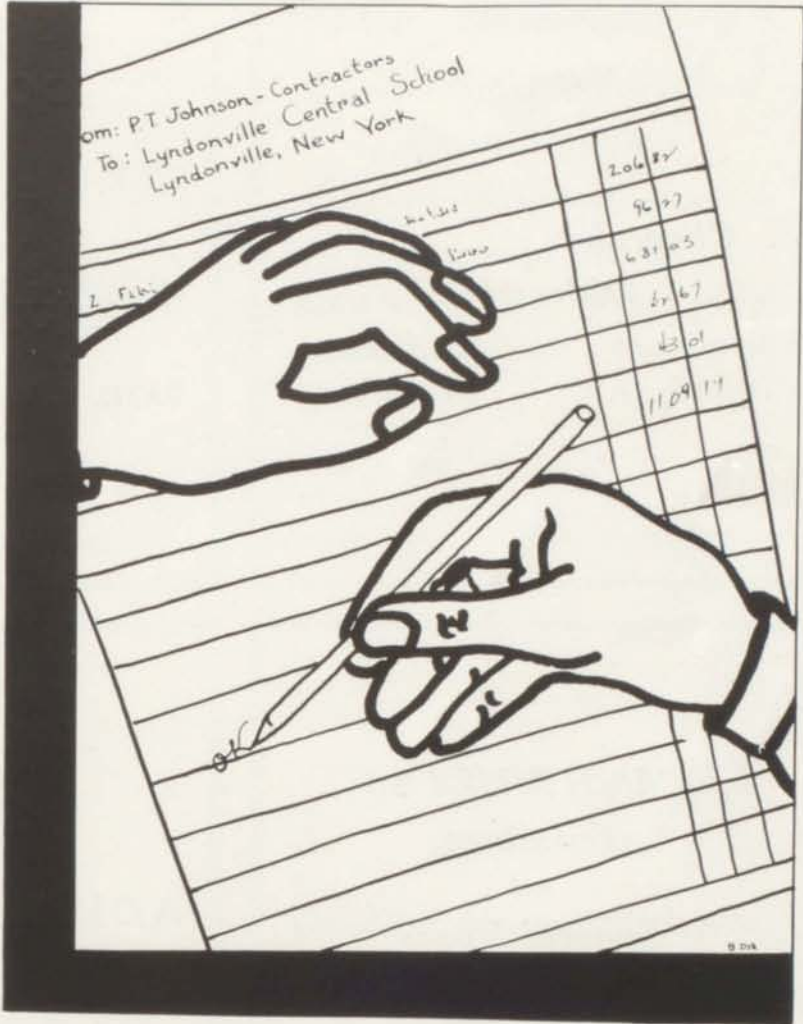

Under the able guidance of Dick Peters and Mary Lou Goldsmith, the business end of the work was pressed forward and a highly successful selling campaign for ads was brought to a close.

A snapshot contest was conducted to procure material for the photo-pages, and an intensive selling campaign among students of the school resulted in a comfortable pre-printing guarantee of yearbook purchases.

Although the job of assembling the yearbook called for plenty of hard work and cooperation among the staff members, it was certainly an educational and profitable experience for the 1952 Re-Echo staff.

CLASS HISTORY

In 1940 a group of twenty first graders started the building of their high school education. Ten of these first graders continued on to become present Seniors of the class of 1952. Under the firm engineering of Miss Norma Kleinsmith we reached the great goal of being able to count to one hundred. How proud we were on that memorable day!

After having successfully overcome the perils of the first year, we passed into the second grade and the open (?) arms of Mrs. Etta Miller. Here we learned that two and two make four. In this year Curtis Bentley, Bob Blanchard, Gerald Foss, Gene Rook, Dick Watson, Magdalen Ander and Betty Dix joined us.

On entering the third grade Mary Lou Goldsmith began chasing small boys around. So you see things haven't changed so much after all! In this year under Miss Marie Barker, Carolyn Bayne and Pauline Hill were added to our class roll.

Passing into fourth grade we encountered one of our still well remembered teachers — Miss Elizabeth Boldger. How we all loved the stories she told and read to us!

Miss Elinore Patten was our instructor for our fifth grade year. Rebecca Brown left us at that time, but we were joined by Bob Batt, Norman Lake and Nancy Belson. In this grade our characters began to take definite shape. Pauline Hill was the smallest one in the class even as she is today.

When we entered the hallowed halls of UPSTAIRS while progressing into sixth grade, we began to realize we were fast approaching our high school days. Dick Peters, Lorraine Nowak, Gloria Larson, Ronald Roland, and Nancy DuBois were added to our number in the sixth grade. Under the tutorship of Miss Marjorie Dunham we managed to surmount all barriers and pass into seventh grade.

Yes, we were seventh graders, and when the bells rang we could actually leave our room! Leading Mrs. Winifred Byerly, our home-room teacher, a merry chase at first, we eventually learned that we couldn't do everything we pleased just because we were in Junior High. Having settled down a bit, we elected Dick Peters and Mike Nowak as our Student Council representatives. Eleanor Young and Marge Fenstermaker joined us in the seventh grade.

Passing into eighth grade and the managership of Mr. Donald Herry, we discovered a new dread awaited us — Regents. But unaware of the pitfalls before us, at the beginning of the year we elected Dick Watson and Bob Roth to Student Council. Mary Lou Goldsmith won the spelling championship and Joyce Skinner won the American Legion Medal for the highest mark in history. In this year James Conley and Theresa Liepiec were added to our number, although Terry left us at the end of the year. We also lost a number of other class members who could not surmount the barrier of regents, or who moved away. Among the latter were Annette and Nancy Dubois who moved to Florida. Mr. Herry breathed a sigh of relief as we continued on our way.

The next year we were really in high school and had our own lockers! Collecting our scattered wits we elected Lorraine Nowak President, Dick Peters, Vice-

CLASS HISTORY

President, and Bob Church Secretary-Treasurer. Mr. Keith Kingsbury and Miss Dorothy Skorupska were our advisors, and Bob Church and Joyce Skinner our Student Council representatives. New classmates included Paul and Pauline Goetze, Ted Grimes and Phyllis Herman, while Gene Sharping moved away. The big event of our Freshman year was the picnic at Shadigee at the close of the year. How can anyone ever forget Miss Skorupska's skating?

In our Sophomore year we began looking ahead to our graduation. We elected Dick Peters as President, Duane Scharlau as Vice-President, Carolyn Bayne as Secretary and Dean West as Treasurer while Miss Virginia Pfeffer and Mr. Glenford Fish were our Advisors. Lorraine Nowak and Dean were our Student Council representatives. Albert Ames joined us and James Conley, Duane Scharlau and Charles Goetze left our class.

We entered the Junior year full of pep and vigor and new ideas for money making schemes. After Albert Ames was elected President, Nancy Belson Vice-President, Curtis Bentley Treasurer, and Polly Freeman Secretary, we were ready to roll. Miss Marie Whitney and Mr. Raymond Phillips served as Class Advisors, and our first money making project was the selling of candy and pop at the canning factory and at games. After this we turned to our chicken supper. We received our long awaited class rings in December of '50. Next came the Junior Prom at which Gayle Johnson was our lovely queen and Norman Lake our handsome king. We ended the year by giving a picnic for the Seniors at Olcott Beach. In our Junior year Carolyn Bayne left us to get married, and Vera Freeman moved to Holley.

Finally we reached the peak of our high school education — we were Seniors! Realizing the responsibilities we held, we elected Dick Peters as our capable President, Joyce Skinner as Vice-President, Mary Lou Goldsmith as Secretary and Curtis Bentley as Treasurer. Mr. Phillips continued as our Class Advisor and Jim Cook and Lorraine Nowak were our representatives to Student Council, and Albert Ames was the President of the Council. The Senior play was our first big event and from this our class fund was built up for our Senior trip. Next we turned to selling magazine subscriptions and after this was successfully completed we started the sale of ads for our yearbook. Our big money making project for the year was the annual amateur show from which we realized a large profit. Herb Boreck and Delores Aaron joined us this year to complete our roll of thirty-two members. As we ended the year with a Junior-Senior picnic we looked forward to our Senior trip to Washington and New York, which we believe we earned as a reward for our hard and diligent work all through our twelve short years at Lyndonville Central.

CLASS PROPHECY

Ten short years have gone by since graduation exercises were held for the class of 1952 of the old Lyndonville Central School system. Let's look in on them as they attend the dedication of the new senior high school building on Main Street, and see what has happened to them during the past decade.

No! It can't be! But it is. It's Palomino Paul Goetze — that famous cowboy singer — tuning up his old guitar. Who's that he's talking to? Why it's his wife, Everglades Ellie, the yodeler. She used to be Eleanor Young. They always said he had a crush on her, but we didn't know it would result in matrimony.

Strolling along to find a seat near the front, is that wealthy, successful, naturalistic photographer, Gene Rook. What started him on the road to success was his development of a picture of a rare cow. The judges in a nationwide contest couldn't figure out what it was so they gave him first prize. He's been successfully developing rare pictures ever since.

Why there's Beverly Sadler Boreck. It doesn't seem possible that she has all those children. Imagine, ten of them!

See those two farmers over there? They say Carl Huntington now has the largest dairy herd in the state, and of course we all knew Clare Woodworth would finally discover a way to grow corn without the cob. Gosh how they are talking!

Gee, see that high brow socialite who just arrived in the limousine. It's Gloria Larson Van Stone-on-Bluff Smith. Wouldn't recognize her now that she's married a rich millionaire! Notice that strong-looking guy with all the protruding muscles! It's Killer Cain, one of the ten outstanding wrestlers in the country. They say that the only thing he's afraid of is women. Watch out, Killer! Here comes one now. Why, it's a cop — Mike Nowak! So you finally became the first female New York State Trooper, Mike — good work!

Let's stroll over and get a popsicle from the ice cream vendor. Why, it's Gerald Foss with a moustache! Mmm, tastes pretty good. There's Phyllis. Doesn't she look nice? (That used to be Phyllis Herman, and they say her husband beats her at least once a week. That's a warning to never marry a lion trainer.)

Look who's coming — it's Professor Ames — his theory on "Relatives and How to Get Rid of Them" has become a big hit.

Watch out! Here comes Hot Rod Harry on his tricycle. Curtis Bentley had so many accidents that they wouldn't let him drive a car any more so now he gets around on a tricycle.

Yes, that's Dick Watson ambling along. He's looking for his first job now that he's going to get married.

That's Delores Aaron. She used to be the most popular dressmaker in the state until she made the Governor's wife's dress, and it suddenly fell apart at a ball. Yes, it was rather embarrassing, especially since his wife was the former Magdalen Ander, one of Delores' classmates.

CLASS PROPHECY

Why look, there's Jim Cook and Dean West. They've set up a shop to teach the art of love making to lonely old ladies. Seem to be doing pretty good at it too.

Doesn't that brunette have pretty hair? You wouldn't believe it but last time I saw her she was a blond. It's Marge Fenstermaker, the great beauty culturist. She specializes in hair styling.

That man over there? Can't place him. Oh yes, it's Ted Grimes. The sign he's carrying advertising Pee Wee's Beanery hid his face from view for a moment. Yes, Pauline Hill runs the Beanery — she's still waiting for a certain soldier to come back to her!

What was that? Why it's Norm Lake taking his pigs to market. No, you're not seeing things — that redhead is his wife.

I wonder what all those men are running from. Oh — it's Mary Lou Goldsmith with her lariat trying to rope a husband! Better run faster Mary Lou — they're getting away.

Yes, I do hear something. It's Captain Robert Church in his specially made airplane named Amy after some old flame of his. You know he has to take to the skies to escape from all the girls.

There's the gay divorcee Nancy Belson. She's been married three times already and they say there's another husband coming up. (You remember her first — he had something to do with greenhouses.)

Goodness gracious — who's that? It's the eccentric scientist Herr Herbert Boreck, Beverly's husband. He just invented a machine to take the curls out of pig's tails, but he hasn't figured out any practical application yet as the demand for un-curved pig tails is slight.

Nice day today, isn't it Mrs. Woodworth? She used to be Betty Dix, but Rog finally got up enough courage to pop the question.

Here comes that great lover, Romeo Robert Roth. Ten girls have already jumped over Niagara Falls because he wouldn't marry them. What a record!

There goes Eleanor Schmitt hurrying past — she's awfully busy now that she's running a school for French Puddles — oops Poodles. Gayle Johnson also has an interest in the business — she takes care of the dog's toothaches.

That old bum? He used to be Dick Peters, the class president — now he's president of the Hobo Association. He's certainly gone up in the world.
